MANY BEAUTIFUL SHOP WINDOWS

tiny colored lights, presents a most pleasing spectacle. The display windows facing Fort street contain a background of white, and numerous colored lights are in evidence which are lighted during the evening. The first window contains a display of thermos bottles of every description, and also a number of automobile sets which contain all the requisites necessary for preparing a quick lunch. There is also a window of beautiful cut glass, and another of Limoges china ware decorated to suit the most critical buyer. On the King street side the largest display is that of cutlery, both in sets and in single pieces, and another smaller display is that of hunters' supplies, containing all the latest models of fire arms as well as shells and ammunition. If you are thinking of giving your boy a set of tools for Christmas, do not fail to take a look at the assortment of Keen Kutter implements on display. Sets are priced all the way from $3.50 to $125.00. The windows were dressed under the direction of G. J. Matifex. As usual, Hall & Son's window is one of the holiday features of business in Honolulu.

B. F. Ehlers & Co.
In the large and tastefully decorated windows of Ehlers & Company is practically everything which one would think of to give as a Christmas gift. The makal windows have been given over to things more of interest to the women, and contain a varied assortment in the way of manicure sets, traveling bags, leather hand bags, dresser sets, etc. The center windows on the left contain numerous suggestions in the way of men's furnishings such as umbrellas, motor coats, traveling cases, gloves, and neckwear. Scarfs, motor veils, dainty lingerie, plumes, sewing sets and other articles which go to make appropriate gifts for the ladies are contained in the window on the right. There are also displays of children's goods, and also a few very large dolls completely dressed, as well as Indian and cowboy suits for both boys and girls. Arthur Myers, who had charge of the dressing of the windows, has arranged the display without the crowding that often predominates, and the windows rank among the most attractive in the city.

Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd.
Did you ever think of giving your man friend a safety razor for Christmas? If you did, you must not overlook the opportunity of seeing the windows of Benson, Smith & Company. A Gillette razor is an acceptable gift by any man, and you may see all the latest styles from a plain outfit to a gold-mounted set in a neat leather case. Then, also, there is a display of French Ivory brushes, mirrors, combs and other articles. There are also different brands of shaving soap, shaving mirrors, and in fact, everything needed by the man who shaves himself.

Will, Nichols & Co., Ltd.
Will, Nichols is the mecca of the Christmas shopper, and it is there that the kiddie directs his footsteps so that he may see all that is the latest in the toy line. A Christmas tree nearly filling the window holds the center of the stage in the Walkiki window, and underneath this the jolly face of Santa Claus peers out from the chimney where he has seemingly taken refuge from the crowds of children and adults that gaze at him. The tree is decorated as all Christmas trees should be, and the window is full of every conceivable kind of joy. The other window is given over to leather goods and musical instruments.

Henry May & Company, Ltd.
All the fixings for the Christmas dinner may be seen in the windows of Henry May & Company. Everything from olives to plum pudding. One of the windows contains nothing but an assortment of good things to eat in tins and glass jars; fruits, nuts, jellies, plum pudding, elder, raisins, Croquet dates and figs, and in fact everything that a person could think of as an addition to the Yuletide feast. Table decorations compose the make-up of the second window, and many unique designs are to be seen in the way of candy containers and other novelties. A large Christmas tree, decorated with strings of tinsel and popcorn, adorns the center of the window, while the baseboard is a mass of smaller table decorations of every description.

A. B. Arleigh & Co., Ltd.
Dolls and toys figure in two of the display windows of Arleigh & Company, and here you will find big dolls and little dolls, billikens, and other smaller dolls, horses hitched to real carriages, and numberless tricycles, go-carts, velocipedes and wagons. Another window contains writing materials in many novel designs, and also a number of the works of the various poets, and other books, in handsome leather binding. The fourth window is given over to story books for the children. Arleigh & Co. always have windows that really convince the passer-by that he ought to go inside.

Vieira Jewelry Co., Ltd.
Hawaiian jewelry and silver novelties are displayed in Vieira's windows and also a number of new styles of stickpins, some set with diamonds, and others bearing the coat-of-arms of Hawaii. Many new designs in the way of silver picture frames are in evidence, and also many other novelties in silver.

M. A. Gunst & Company.
If a man is a smoker, he will enjoy nothing better than a box of good cigars as a Christmas gift, and a line of imported Havana "smokes," put up in attractive boxes of twenty-five and fifty, is being displayed in the windows of Gunst & Company. Then there are also the old favorite cigars such as the Van Dyke and others, besides a line of smokers' accessories which make most acceptable gifts. Pipes from a corn cob to a meerschaum are being displayed at various prices, and also a large assortment of cigar and cigarette holders, tobacco pouches, humidors, lighters and many other things. If "he" smokes, then see Gunst's windows.

Silva's Toggery, Ltd.
"The Home of Good Clothes" is making a display that is hard to beat in any city on the mainland. The two spacious windows, with their mirror backgrounds, abound in every article of wearing apparel known to the well-dressed man, from a necktie to a full dress suit, and from a leather belt to a smoking jacket, all tastefully arranged. White and gray suits for the warm weather are on display, as well as clothing from the famous Hart, Schaffner and Marx company. Tie sets and combination sets of ties, socks and handkerchiefs are shown in all the latest colors, and make excellent Christmas gifts. The Toggery's display is one of the most pleasing and tastefully arranged of its kind in the city.

Hollister Drug Company, Ltd.
Cameras, from a small vest pocket affair to a $65 special kodak, go to make the principal display in the windows of the Hollister Drug company, and who could wish for a better Christmas gift than a camera? There is also a display of fancy stationery, as well as perfume and toilet articles, candy in attractive boxes and manicure sets.

Hawaiian Electric Company, Ltd.
The Hawaiian Electric company is featuring something entirely new this year in the way of electric cooking utensils. Electric toasters, egg boilers, percolators, irons and other appliances are on display in the windows of the company, together with a number of the latest styles in electric table lamps, including many new designs.

J. Hogg & Company, Ltd.
Furniture for the children's playroom and the nursery takes up the whole of one of Hogg & Company's spacious windows on King street. Miniature dressers, beds, chairs, bureaus and even playhouses are on display. The other window contains a number of the new style of electric lamps which have just been received by the company. These lamps are made of wood, handsomely carved, and are accompanied by a stand. There are others of wicker work. Hogg's windows present an unusually attractive appearance for the reason that they are dressed to represent rooms in the modern house today. The window containing the lamps includes a large fireplace in which a fire is seemingly burning, and the walls, which are neatly papered and hung with pictures present a most pleasing appearance. The atmosphere of these windows is a "homey" one and the goods inside are well set forth.

Yee Chan & Co.
The large show windows of Yee Chan & Company are attractively decorated in the regulation Christmas style, and contain samples of nearly everything in the varied stock of the large concern. One window has been given over entirely to ladies' footwear, and has been decorated in white with strings of tinsel strung from the center of the ceiling to the corners of the window. Another contains novelties in Chinese silks, scarfs, embroidered evening wraps, table and pillow covers, spreads and kimonoes. Still another contains hand bags in leather and beads, fans and novelties which attract the Christmas shopper. The windows on the Bethel street side are given over to a display of men's shoes, and also of trunks and suitcases.

N. S. Sachs Drygoods Co., Ltd.
Dolls, ranging in price from seventy-five cents to fifteen dollars, and of every size and kind, form one of the interesting displays by Sachs in the Beretania street show windows. Another window contains models of the latest styles in net dresses, which have recently arrive from the mainland and are shown here for the first time. The third window contains an assortment of novelties in the way of perfume, writing paper, leather hand bags, fans, traveling sets, pillow tops, sewing boxes and others too numerous to mention. The first window on the Fort street side contains a display of Chuny and Venetian lace, arranged in sets of a large centerpiece and three different sizes of dollies to match. There is also a sprinkling of Madeira embroidery in centerpieces and dollies. The second window contains lingerie. The displays of this store are unusually well selected.

A. Blom.
Novelties in Christmas goods play a prominent part in the display windows of A. Blom on the Hotel street side. Here one may find everything in the way of smaller Christmas gifts, such as smokers sets, stationery, dolls, mirrors, comb, brush and mirror sets, vanity boxes, leather and beaded hand bags and other similar articles. The windows facing Fort street were opened this afternoon with a showing of white lingerie dresses, each of a different style, which were received recently from the Coast. There are also a number of women's sweaters, both plain and on the "ruff neck" style, umbrellas for both men and women, and a display of ladies' silk hose and other lingerie.

Manufacturers' Shoe Company
Handsome models of the latest styles in men's shoes, are contained in the makal display window of the Manufacturers' Shoe Company. This window, with a mirror background, has been decorated in white, with holly, leaves, and gold tinsel. An attractive show card also adds to the pleasing effect. The mauka window is dressed after the pattern on the first, and contains a display of women's shoes in leather and suede, as well as many different styles of boudoir slippers.

Wall & Dougherty.
The handsome new store of the firm of Wall and Dougherty presents an unusually attractive appearance both in show window and interior decorations. The articles on display in the windows are set off by a profusion of potted palms, ferns, and poinsettias, tastefully arranged, and a scattering of California holly. A Louis XIV cabinet in gilt in the mauka window contains some very beautiful pearl and diamond necklaces as well as the latest designs in silver picture frames. Tall electric stand lamps stand on either side, and when lighted during the evening present a very pleasing appearance. Display cabinets containing cut glass, china, and Dutch gilded picture frames take up the space in the other large window, together with a huge silver punchbowl and smaller silver centerpieces arranged on a table. Many electric lamps with imported hand-carved stands of ebony and teak are in evidence. The ladisplay wall cabinets on the interior of the store, as well as the balcony in the rear, have been decorated with potted plants and poinsettias, giving a real Christmas effect to the entire store. The display is perhaps at its best in the evening when illuminated by hundreds of concealed lights in the cabinets.

Hawaiian News Company, Ltd.
Throughout the entire city there is, not perhaps, a display window which set forth the spirit of Christmas in a better manner than that of the Hawaiian News Company. Over a field of entire white, and glistening like real snow is an aeroplane carrying Santa Claus, and containing sundry Christmas presents. Perhaps reindeer and a sled would have been more appropriate a few years ago, but not so in this day of modern invention, and the Hawaiian News Co. has pictured the venerable giver of gifts as riding the most up-to-date form of locomotion. The window on the left of the one just mentioned is attractively decorated with red and white streamers, and contains a display of musical instruments and phonographs.

Metropolitan Meat Market.
The one thing needed for a real Christmas is a Christmas tree. Not a make believe one, but a genuine pine or fir, little or big, and it is of these that the Metropolitan Meat Company is making a specialty at this time. The trees were recently received here in all sizes, and may be seen outside of the market.

Coyne Furniture Company
In one of the windows of the Coyne Furniture Company is a complete set of dining room furniture of the latest design, and made of golden oak. The

The K. D. Electric Water Heater

Patented December 12, 1911

ABSOLUTELY GUARANTEED

HONOLULU BRANCH

National Supplies Co.,

Telephone 4385. Hotel and Union Streets.

For many years you and I have waited for our little friend—"K. D." and now he has arrived, spic and span, ready for business.

"K. D." is the greatest, cleanest, neatest little electric water heater in the whole wide world. The product of electric science. Made to fit in any house, place of business, office, hospital, home, sick room, barber shop, soda fountain, bar, bedroom, in fact anywhere that there is the least chance that hot water—fresh running hot water—is required quickly.

"K. D." is guaranteed by the manufacturing company for one year from the day he is installed in your home. Guaranteed to produce the satisfactory results we claim for him. You can't break "K. D." up unless you take an ax. If you smash him with an ax then of course we won't be responsible, but if anything goes wrong with "K. D." in the plain, everyday wear and tear demanded of him for a whole year after he is installed in your home or place of business or office, then the manufacturers will replace him with another, or remedy the part requiring attention, but there is nothing that can go wrong.
